June Flowers on Christmas Morn

The loveliness of early summer is brought to the home on Christmas morn when you present your mother, wife or sweetheart with a beautiful gift of kowers.

Especially welcome are the quality blooms from our store because of the contrast with the cold and barren days that usually are our lot at Holiday time. And there's nothing like flowers that carry real thoughts of sentiment.

We're unusually well prepared for the Christmas trade this year with Holiday vases, corsage, table decoration or general decoration.

CONDIMENTS ARE INJURIOUS

Effects on Egg-Producing Organs Are Temporary and Undermine Health of Fowls.

The use of condiments and tonics is to be deprecated rather than encouraged, though there are times when a tonic will tone up the system. Condiments undoubtedly stimulate the egg-producing organs, but it is a temporary effect and the reaction which sets in not only is negative but tends to undermine the physical health of the bird. It is well to remember that in the egg-laying contests tonics and condiments have no place in the feeding rations, and that for the most part high records are attained without their use. So-called stimulants find their widest use by the novice in poultry farming; the experienced breeder generally lets them alone.

HEMP RAISED IN WISCONSIN

Badger State Cultivates 7,000 Acres, Half of Total Produced in United States.

Kentucky once led in hemp production, but has turned to more profitable crops and relinquished the lead to Wisconsin, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. The Badger state cultivates 7,000 acres, half the country's total this year, followed by Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio and California, with Kentucky sixth.

BIG SHRINKAGE IN POTATOES

Average is Three Per Cent or 1,200 Pounds Per Carload When Shipped in Bulk.

"Shrinkage" in bulk carloads of potatoes averages three per cent, according to a survey of marketing conditions made by the United States Department of Agriculture. This amounts to 1,200 pounds per carload. The "shrinkage" is less where potatoes are sacked, as this reduces pilfering and rough handling to the minimum.

PLIGHT OF EUROPE'S CHILDREN STAGGERS

3,500,000 Facing Starvation Can Only Be Saved by America's Response to Joint Appeal.

It is utterly impossible for one who has not actually seen the misery of the early Autumn in Europe to visualize what the children of the Eastern and Central portions of the continent face this winter. To say that 3,500,000 children have no alternative to starvation or death from disease except American aid, is startling, but independent observers by the score and careful scientific surveys of the economic and crop conditions overseas brand the figure as conservative.

In Poland, for instance, where 1,800,000 youngsters last year subsisted almost entirely on the one free American meal a day that they received, conditions as winter closes down, are worse than ever before. The Bolshevik invasion stripped large portions of the country of all grain. Professor E. D. Durand, Food Adviser to the Polish government, after an exhaustive survey, has reported that only forty per cent is available of the food necessary to carry the population through the winter.

In the city of Vienna tests conducted in the American Relief Administration food kitchens showed that 62 per cent of the children between the ages of 0 and 14 were "seriously undernourished." Thirty-three per cent were markedly undernourished, 11 per cent were slightly subnormal and only 4 per cent approached the state of a normal American child. The American Relief Administration is feeding 300,000 Austrian children every day now, and there is no chance of diminution of need before next harvest.

The spectacle of the medical needs of Europe's children is equally appalling. Estimates reaching the American Red Cross as to needs for medical service in the destitute areas this winter include: Old Austria-Hungary, 750,000; new Poland, 1,800,000; Czechoslovakia, 200,000; Serbia, 150,000, and Roumania, 100,000. In the fiscal year of 1919-20 the Red Cross has reached with the veritable gift of life 1,500,000 children in the affected areas. Tuberculosis is prevalent to a terrific degree. Five children out of seven in the city of Warsaw, for instance, have been found to be tubercular. Typhus is widespread; rickets, the right hand of undernourishment is almost universal; and cholera lifts its grim head constantly in one place and another.

The European Relief Council, comprising the American Relief Administration, the American Red Cross, the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers), the Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, the Knights of Columbus, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A., seeks $30,000,000 with which to meet the situation. It has estimated that at least $23,000,000 must be had for food and $10,000,000 for medical service to avert absolute disaster among the three and a half children. Checks may be sent to the local committee or to Franklin K. Lane, Treasurer Europe, Relief Council, 42 Broadway, New York, or to the Child Feeding Fund, Ltd., 475 Digest, New York City.

CHIEF BENEFITS BY FARMER

Lower Cost of Transportation, With Better Markets and Higher Prices for Products.

Perhaps one of the chief benefits which will be derived by the farmer from the construction of good roads through his particular district is that of an increased production coupled with a better market and higher prices for his goods and a lower cost of transportation. All of these things go hand in hand with the construction of good roads and all of them have sound economic reasons at their base.

GOOD ROADS HELP CHILDREN

Larger Percentage of Students Attend Schools Regularly Where Highways Are Improved.

While it is true that various factors contribute to increase or reduce the attendance at schools in given sections of the country, it is worthy of comment that in the states having a high percentage of improved roads a much larger percentage of rural students enrolled regularly attend the schools than in the states having a small percentage of improved roads.

Missouri Organizing. Many of the county farm bureaus in Missouri are finding that the effectiveness of their organizations is increased by forming "farm bureau centers" or community clubs.

Good Scratching Material. Leaves are cheap in the fall and make splendid scratching material for bedding the poultry house floor.

Purebred Sire Is Best. The purebred sire is better than the grade.

PREPARE CAPONS FOR BEST PRICE

No Feed or Water Should Be Given for 24 Hours Before Fowls Are Killed.

STICKING METHOD FAVORED

Some Feathers Should Be Allowed to Remain as Distinguishing Mark—Pack in Neat Boxes of Most Convenient Size.

Capons selected for killing should be confined for 24 hours without feed or water to empty their crops completely. The usual method of killing is known as the sticking method. The fowl is hung up by the feet, the head in the left hand, and the whole body stretched to full length. The mouth is forced open and the blood vessels at the back of the throat are severed with a sharp narrow-bladed knife. The knife is then turned and the point pinned through the roof of the mouth to a post just behind and between the eyes, piercing the brain. The muscles are relaxed and the feathers come out easily.

Dry Picking Is Best. Capons should always be dry picked, as they look much better and as some of the feathers should be left on. The feathers of the neck and head, the tail feathers, those a short way up the back, the feathers of the last two joints of the wing, and those of the leg, about one-third of the way from knee to hip joint, should be left on. These feathers, together with the head of the capon, serve to distinguish it from other classes of poultry on the market, and consequently should never be removed. In packing, be careful not to tear the skin. Badly torn, poultry specialists of the United States department of agriculture say.

Good Specimen of Capon, should be seen up. Capons scalded and picked bare bring very little, if any, better prices than other poultry in the same condition.

Most markets require capons to be undrawn and the head and feet left on. Care should be used to cleanse the head and feet of all signs of blood and filth.

Pack in Neat Box.

After picking, the carcasses are hung in a cool place until the animal heat has entirely left the body, when they are ready to be packed. Like other poultry they should be packed in boxes of convenient size, holding a dozen carcasses, or in barrels. Every attention should be given to neatness and attractiveness, as this helps the sale and the price. During the time of year when most capons are marketed—January, February and March—no ice is necessary, but if for any reason they are shipped in warm weather, they should be packed in ice.

FIND ROUTE PRODUCE TAKES

Shippers of Fruits and Vegetables Are Advised to Learn Market Likes and Dislikes.

Any intelligent attempt to better marketing conditions must be based on a good working knowledge of present agencies and their functions. The agent, that both producer and consumer can come to an understanding and appreciation of the work devolving upon the distributor, the nearer will Americans approach a solution of many of the problems incident to the movement of fruits and vegetables.

The shipper who has definite knowledge of the course his goods will take when they reach a big market has a great advantage over the man who has no idea of methods of distribution. He can safeguard his interests by retaining a measure of control over his product after it reaches destination.

Shippers or prospective shippers of fruits and vegetables are advised to get in touch with their principal market learn its likes and dislikes and peculiarities, study the means whereby their goods are distributed to consumers and secure a working knowledge of the chief problems incident to the handling of their commodities.

PIGS REDUCE HUMAN COSTS

"Hogging Down" Corn Shows to Be Profitable, Say Experts at North Dakota Station.

Here is another bit of evidence received at University Farm that "hogging down" corn is good business for many growers of hogs and corn. The North Dakota Agricultural Station obtained a return of $1.44 per acre by using 45 bushels of feed corn to raise 45 bushels of pork. This is a gain of $1.44 per acre. The hogs were turned into the feed September 6, when they averaged 100 pounds in weight, and left there until November 12. They made an average gain of 94 pounds, or a gain of $1.75 per acre. They were marketed at 16.51 cents, which, allowing for shrinkage, gave a return of $1.44 per acre. These results are in line with those obtained by the Farmers' experiment stations.

BEAUTY IS REFLECTED HEALTH

"Good-Looking" Means the Opposite of Sick-Looking

IT'S A MATTER OF RED BLOOD CELLS

Pepto-Mangan Makes Sick, Red Blood—Builds Up People Who Lack Vitality

If your body is sound and your blood is rich and red, your acts and thoughts will be quick and strong. Let your blood get weak, and your food won't nourish you nor your sleep refresh you.

Too much hard work, an illness, or a mental strain can thin down your blood, and Pepto-Mangan is needed to bring it back to healthy, normal condition.

Knowing this, doctors for years have recommended Gode's Pepto-Mangan because of its blood-building and tonic properties.

Pepto-Mangan is such a simple and harmless tonic, yet such a prompt builder of red blood, that its reputation has spread all over the country. Today every druggist sells it and thousands of men and women use it as a restorative whenever they or their children seem to feel below par.

Pepto-Mangan agrees with the most delicate stomach, and is obtainable in either liquid or tablet form. Be sure the name "Gode's" is on the package when you buy Pepto-Mangan. Ask the druggist for "Gode's." If "Gode's" is not on the package, it is not Pepto-Mangan. Adv.

ARBITRATOR TO END DISPUTE

Both Parties in Labor Controversy in Fort Smith District of Arkansas Accept Mediation.

Both sides agreed to accept arbitration in a labor dispute in the Fort Smith district of Arkansas which resulted from an attempt to introduce a lower wage scale in a smelting plant at Van Buren, Ark., the Department of Labor announced. An arbitrator chosen by the department is satisfactory both to employer and employee, it was said, and will report at Van Buren shortly.

The case is important in that it was the first authentic instance of an attempt to reduce wages to come to the attention of the department. The employees of the smelting plant were organized in the Mine, Mill and Smelter workers' union. A later attempt to reduce wages which was brought to the department led to the measures which made reductions unnecessary, through assistance obtained from the Ford plant in Detroit, Mich., which is illustrating economies that may be made in the factories affected, all of which manufacture Ford parts.

CALLS WAGE REDUCTION SCHEME "BAD BUSINESS"

Declaring that a reduction of wages throughout factories of Canada would defeat the very object which the employers had in view, President Tom Moore of the Dominion Trades and Labor congress said, that such a policy would not be good business from any point of view. "The manufacturers of this country," said Mr. Moore, "depend primarily on their home markets, and any policy which curtails that market by reducing the purchasing power through a reduction of wages of the great mass of workers must be bad business and would defeat the object they have in view of clearing accumulated stocks."

Consider Wage Readjustment.

Wage readjustment policies are occupying the attention of the employers largely at present, according to information reaching the conciliation service of the Department of Labor, which received information of two methods by which the relations of wages and decreased demand for products are being reconciled, both having their origin in Detroit, Mich.

In this connection, interesting reports, which cannot be traced down, are about in Washington to the effect that price reductions on a considerable scale will go into effect in the near future. Whatever foundation there may be for these reports, it is now sufficiently clear that a downward movement of prices is under way, though it may come slowly.

Labor Banks.

The opening in Cleveland of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Co-operative National bank, hailed as the first co-operative national bank in the United States and the first of its kind set up by organized labor, was the occasion for a declaration by the brotherhood chief that labor needs banks of its own more than does any other class, unless it be the farmers. This seems to indicate that if labor needs banks more, it also needs more banks. And if its co-operative plan to distribute earnings in excess of 10 per cent stock dividends, to its depositors, works out well more banks should not be difficult to achieve.—Christian Science Monitor.

Company Denied Injunction.

Federal court decrees refusing to grant an injunction to the Niles Tool Works company of Hamilton, O., against the Iron Molders' union, Local No. 68, were upheld by the Supreme court.

The Niles Tool Works, while working on government orders in 1917 was seriously handicapped by a strike which it was alleged was designed to defeat the open shop policy of the company. The complaint asserted that the strike was in effect a conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce and was a violation of the national defense act.

More Work Done in Fewer Hours.

A point of interest to employers who have incessantly deplored the shortening of hours and insisted that a proportionate decrease in production would inevitably follow, is that according to a report made to the British parliament where output was largely or entirely dependent on the worker there was frequently no loss in production; indeed in one wholesale tailoring establishment an increase of 10 per cent was reported. In another instance, a boot factory, where the hour of work were reduced from 52 to 48 per week, there was a considerable increase in output.—The City Labor Review.

Plan to Fight Wage Reduction.

Federation of Labor officials estimate there are more than 1,000,000 unemployed in the country. Some of them attribute the shutting down of plants to a concerted determination on the part of employers to force reduction of wages and also to force the country back to the open shop basis. One plan proposed to meet this menace is for the American Federation of Labor to raise a $20,000,000 fund to aid unemployed union men.

TO DARKEN HAIR USE SAGE TEA

A Few Applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur Bring Back its Vigor, Color, Gloss and Youthfulness

Common garden sage brewed in to a heavy tea with sulphur added, our youthful appearance and atttractive. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

THE SHEEP.

"Ah," said Mother Sheep, "the summer is here and we are out where there is green grass and where there are nice meadows and where there are cooling streams, and where the sun shines."

"My beautiful baby 'Laura Lamb,' she said, "you must follow the leader. We always follow the leader. We're gentle and we're quiet. We're rather timid, too. We don't think a great deal for ourselves."

"They say," Mother Sheep continued, "that when folks cannot sleep they make believe they are seeing sheep, and that they are counting them going through a gate. That is because sheep follow each other, and if one were going through a gate the others would be going through, too."

"Oh, they get tired, you see, of counting the sheep they can make believe that they see! And so they go to sleep!"

"And you see what a help we are to people when we do such things, so that they can see us in their minds going through a gate—one after the other."

"You see, my Laura Lamb, if sheep should go different ways then people couldn't be helped toward sleep by us, and it is nice to think of helping people to sleep, for we're gentle, kind souls, and it is nice to help."

"So, Laura Lamb, you, too, always follow the leader. Don't go through one gate yourself and have your cousins going through another and some other cousins through the opening in the fence and the others perhaps going under the fence."

"We must all go together, we sheep," said Laura Lamb. "Baa-baa-baa, Mother Sheep! I will do as you say. For I would not feel brave enough to do any other way. I would not want to be a leader, and I am glad to have a leader. I wouldn't want to go off on my own account. I would want to keep around with the others. I would be afraid to go hurrying across the road the way I've seen the hens and roosters doing."

"No, I care more to do as the other sheep do, to enjoy the lovely summer time, to bleat and to baa and to talk and to smile in a quiet, gentle way upon the people who look at me."

"I don't care to shrike at them and talk to them as the turkeys will so often do, but I like to look at them when they are nice and quiet and when they smile at me."

"That's what I live to do when people smile at me," said Laura Lamb.

"Yes," said Mother Sheep, "and remember, too, that the children of the farmer who owns this farm and all of the animals upon it, are very kind to us. They come and pet us and we need not be afraid of them. We can be very tame and you will become tame as I am tame with them."

"They come and pet us and kiss our heads and ears and we must bleat and baa and tell them we love them, too and that we think they're so sweet to be gentle with us, for they know that is what we like so much."

"But always remember above all things, Laura Lamb, that we must follow the leader, especially when the leader has us follow him through a gate, for we must remember what a help that is to people when they can't sleep. They can think of us, and if they thought of us all going in different directions it would be so confusing they couldn't sleep, as I told you before."

"Remember that, dear Laura Lamb. Ah, my lovely lamb child, how I love you!"

"Bleat, bleat, b-e-e-a-t," said Laura Lamb. "I will do as you say about the following of our leader. Ah, there come some of the farmer's children."

"Yes, there they come, they love the sheep and the lambs," said Mother Sheep.

And as they came near they walked quietly and talked to the sheep and the lambs in soft, gentle voices, and the lambs and the sheep followed them about and said: "Baa-baa, b-e-e-a-t, we so love you, for you are so good and kind to us, and our little lamb hearts and our big sheep hearts are very grateful."

And their eyes, too, told how much they loved the children, who never frightened them, but who loved them, and who understood their gentle ways.

Chinese Must Be Humored.

There is a certain sales psychology which must be remembered when dealing with the Chinaman and that is his respect for tradition. One foreign importer found himself unable for time to dispose of a shipment of fruits which came in yellow-colored cans, yellow being associated in China with death, while on the other hand it has been found that foods cloaked in red, the symbol of luck are in eager demand.

Weather Influences Moods.

Most city workers who have thought about it agree that they do their work best in windy weather. The reason is simple. Calm weather fills the atmosphere with the poisonous carbonic acid gas that is produced by human breathing. A wind sweeps this away and replaces it with stimulating oxygen. Artificially produced oxygen is now used in some offices with the object of abolishing "that tired feeling" among the employees.

How Your Sardines Were Sealed.

The scales have already been removed from the sardines when you open the can. Is the sealing done by hand? Not any more. The sardines are placed in the cylinders, which revolve from right to left. The continuous rubbing of the small fish against the perforated cylinder case causes the scales to break off. A constant stream of water played on the fish carries off the scales as soon as they are detached. When the fish are thoroughly scaled, they are dropped into a tank, placed for that purpose at the end of the cylinder.—Popular Science Monthly.

FACTS ABOUT TANLAC ARE GIVEN TO PUBLIC

Special Representative Tells Why It Has Become Most Talked of Medicine in the World Today.

NO GREAT MYSTERY ABOUT IT, HE SAYS

Merit Alone Has Confirmed It In the Minds of the People All Over the American Continent.

C. L. Hughes, special representative of Tanlac, the medicine that has created such a sensation all over the United States and Canada, gave some highly interesting facts about Tanlac and the remarkable results achieved by it.

"Contrary to popular opinion," he stated, "there is no great mystery about Tanlac, except in so far as the chemistry of the human body itself and what it does with substances taken into it, is a mystery. Some of the ingredients of Tanlac have been known and used as medicines for centuries. Others are of more recent discovery, but every one of them is of recognized therapeutic value and used by the medical profession everywhere. Tanlac is simply a co-mingling of these medicinal elements in a way hitherto unknown and which brings out their curative and reconstructive powers to a most remarkable degree. Briefly, it allays irritation of the stomach, strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, builds up and revitalizes the whole system, and gives the body new powers of resistance and strength. Gratifying gains in weight are not uncommon, especially where a person has suffered from under-nourishment brought on by dyspepsia, indigestion, illness, operation or other causes.

"It is a demonstrated fact in medical science that the stomach is the starting point of most of the ills that afflict the human body, and many so-called diseases are not diseases at all, but reflex symptoms of the stomach derangements of the weakened condition of the body that naturally follows. Some kinds of rheumatism, gastritis, palpitation, nervousness, kidney disorders and liver complaints are among the more common troubles developed through the stomach. Scores of other diseases have been traced to the same source.

"Tanalac was made especially to overcome these stomach complaints and the various so-called diseases and symptoms that follow them, but the astonishing reconstructive powers revealed by it have not only astounded the general public, but have somewhat surprised even the originators of the medicine themselves. Thousands of letters reach the Tanlac offices from all parts of North America telling of remarkable results derived by people who have suffered for years without being able heretofore to find relief.

"Naturally, these remarkable achievements have spread the fame of Tanlac to all quarters of the continent, and the demand for it has necessitated working the laboratories night and day.

"The tremendous popularity of Tanlac grows steadily instead of diminishing and can be explained in only one way—merit. Its remarkable restorative effects seem to be more permanent than hitherto believed possible. Thousands of persons who took it when it was first introduced five years ago report that they are still enjoying excellent health and millions of American homes are now using Tanlac as the family medicine after having first tried it out thoroughly."

HOW TO BE A VETERAN SCOUT.

If you have had five years' service in the Boy Scouts of America, and are a first-class scout, you are eligible to membership in the Veterans Scout association. The veterans scout agrees to take as active a part in scouting as circumstances will permit, and to continue to live up to the obligations of the scout oath and law.

WORLD SCOUTS AT WORSHIP.

Doubtless the most impressive religious ceremony with a congregation of youth was that held in London on the first Sunday after the gathering of representative boy scouts of the world for their recent "jamboree." There were assembled in the vast arena of the Olympic approximately 10,000 boy scouts from all parts of the globe, scouts of all colors, all creeds, and of 34 nationalities, and all in the uniforms they honor. More than 5,000 adults participated, completely filling the great building. The impressive scout law was in evidence, emphasizing that the crowning glory of scouting is reverence. Other services for scouts were held in Westminster abbey, in St. Paul's cathedral, and the Westminster Catholic cathedral.

GOOD TURNS FOR BOY SCOUTS.

The boy's department of the Y. M. C. A. in Cincinnati recently gave for the boy scouts of that city the greatest treasure hunt of their lives. About 500 boys raced over ten routes, at the end of each having been hidden a treasure for them to find. Upon their return to Y. M. C. A. headquarters there were other hidden treasures in that vicinity for them to find before the time for entertainment and refreshments.

The Polite Sandpiper.

Among scientists this sandpiper is known as Helodromas Solitaria. He has a straight, slender bill, with the upper part grooved over half its length; the outer tail feathers and tail covers are white, barred with dusky bars; he is also spotted and barred under his wings, and measures about seven and a half inches long. The solitary sandpiper breeds up in the northern part of the United States and with idle millionaires and swells he goes down to the Gulf coast to spend the winter. The sandpiper is a very polite bird. As soon as he sees you he will salute by nodding his head. He seems to be proud of the markings on the under side of his wings, for when he alights he will hold his long wings stretched upwards, so that one may see and admire the pretty markings before the wings slowly and gracefully fold upon his back, and he interests himself in the search of food.—Dan Beard in Boys' Life.

CHIMPANZEE JOEY.

"My name is Chimpanzee Joey," said the chimpanzee in the zoo.

"Why don't you say that your name is Joey Chimpanzee?" asked another monkey, named Ellen.

"Because," said Joey, "I am a chimpanzee in the first place and in the second place I am named Joey. I might have been named something else besides Joey, but I couldn't have been called anything else but a chimpanzee. That would have been impossible. Quite impossible."

"All things are possible," said Ellen in a cranky tone.

"Now Ellen," said Joey, "that sounds all right, but it hasn't always got sense to it. In this case it hasn't. You see I was born a chimpanzee and a chimpanzee I am. Then the keeper wanted to give me a name, so he called me Joey. Therefore I am Chimpanzee Joey. Chimpanzee comes first."

"Oh, very well," said Ellen.

"You see I couldn't be anything else but a chimpanzee any more than a boy could be anything else but a boy. And yet a boy might have almost any name such as John or Jack or Peter or Bernard."

"I think," said Joey, grinning, "that you are a little bit tired today. You are what is known as grouchy. That is you have a grouchy on."

"I have nothing on but what I always wear," snapped Ellen crossly.

"Just what I say. The rainy weather has made you feel cross. It makes many people cross, too, especially when there is a great deal of rain with little or no sunshine appearing for a long time."

"What do you mean when you say I have a grouchy on?" asked Ellen.

"Well," said Joey, "to be quite correct I should say you had a grouchy. I could leave out the word 'on' without hurting my sentence in the least."

"Who cares if you hurt the sentence?" asked Ellen. "I'm sure I don't."

"Oh, well," said Joey, "I mean, of course, that it wouldn't spoil the meaning of the sentence if I left off the word. As a matter of fact, grouchy isn't a word that is used so very often. It's a slangy word. But it means what you've got today."

"I've got nothing but what I always have," said Ellen.

"Ah, yes," said Joey, "you're cross. And you're not always cross. You've got a good disposition, as a rule. But today you have lost your good disposition and have taken a cross one in its place."

"I've not lost it," said Ellen.

"Then you have lent it to someone," said Joey. "And they haven't as yet returned it to you!" He grinned at Ellen.

Yes, it was true, she was not feeling pleasant.

"Well," said Joey, "I feel sleepy myself, though I don't feel cross. Yes," he added, "I feel very sleepy. I must yawn."

Joey yawned but he put his hand in front of his mouth as he had been told it was not polite to yawn without doing that and he never yawned without putting his hand in front of his mouth.

He had heard of the old saying, "when you yawn, pray turn aside and with your hand the motion hide," which many people have heard and been taught to follow.

Joey never failed to do it, and you would have laughed if you could have seen the sleepy chimpanzee yawning and yawning, and every time his hand going up to hide the yawn from public view.

Even when visitors were not around and when only the keeper and the other monkeys were there, Joey never forgot his manners in this way, for he said he might forget them at some very important time if he got out of the habit of always remembering.

"Well," he said, "I think I'll have a little nap, and perhaps when I wake up I will find that your good disposition has been returned to you. Good afternoon, pleasant nap." And with one more yawn which sleepy though he was, he hid from view, then Chimpanzee Joey snuggled up and went sound, sound asleep while he dreamed of bananas and peanuts quarrelling as to which should be eaten by Joey first.

The Holiday Spirit is the spirit of buoyant youth

Buoyant, dancing, sparkling, youthful, brimming over with the joy of living, that is the Yuletide spirit—and this spirit finds expression in music.

Christmas without music lacks the real holiday spirit—the exuberant joyfulness of the great day.

The Brunswick brings you Christmas music, music for all times and for all. It opens to you the music treasures of the ages, because it makes possible the playing of all records.

Brunswick

The new Brunswick method of reproduction is an exclusive feature. It makes possible the playing of any record, of any make, with the Ultona—a scientific creation, an all-in-one reproducer. It sets with a turn of the hand the right needle and diaphragm to play each record, so opening wide to you the music, the voices, the instrumentalists of the whole world.

The Brunswick Oval Tone Amplifier is the all-wood throat, with its swelling oval mouth, which gives to The Brunswick its glorious richness, volume and resonant sweetness of tone.

Don't wait to select your Xmas Brunswick

Telling you that Brunswick is a better phonograph, and why it is better, can not give you a real idea of its superiority. You can be convinced only by hearing this superb instrument reproduce famous records. Come in, come EARLY, and avoid the inevitable holiday crush. Select your Christmas Brunswick now, while stocks are complete, and you can have a wider selection to choose from. Insure early delivery of the instrument you want.

CRIME CONDITIONS IN NEW YORK SHOW BIG BETTERMENT

For First time in Weeks A Full Day Passes in Which There Has Not Been a Major Crime

ROUNDUP CROOKS

New York, Dec. 20.—Following a week and a half tide, the crime wave broke out here again today with a daylight murder and robbery. Two bandits entered the Sumner's Mission on the downtown waterfront and held up James Russell, the clerk in charge, and when he attempted to resist they shot and killed him. They looted the cash box and escaped with $200 in cash.

New York, Dec. 20.—Hundreds of crooks were being rounded up today in the police drives designed to curb the crime wave which has resulted in an unprecedented number of hold-ups, burglaries and shootings. The roundup began early yesterday and was still under way. Many of those picked up were released after giving satisfactory explanation of themselves and were ordered to leave the city while many others were held for further investigation. This arrival of old time police methods together with the increased number of reports from the district and detectives in the various districts has resulted in 24 hours passing without a major crime, a record which has not existed for several years. Police did not accept this momentary cessation as the final collapse of the crime wave and were preparing to increase the scope of their roundup.

As things reopened today the retail district again furnished an opportunity for holdup men and pickpockets to ply their trade. The last important burglary was reported to the police just before the roundup of crooks began. By means of a skeleton key thieves entered the apartment of Mrs. Cecile Sartoris, granddaughter of General Grant, and stole $5,000 worth of jewelry and furs. There were also three minor holdups in the outlying districts.

INAUGURAL BALL TO BE RESUMED BY MR. HARDING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 20.—For the first time in 12 years Washington is to have its inaugural ball. The ball, which was a function of inauguration night, was banned by President Wilson eight years ago. The committee recently appointed to arrange for the inauguration of President Harding has decided to resume the ball, which is held in the big pension office and attended by several hundred persons.

PLACE FOR IRELAND AND ENGLAND HIT A SNAG ON SATURDAY

Vice President of Irish Republic Talks Premier That Reconciliation Is Possible There Be Valera.

ATTITUDE CLOSES DOOR

London, Dec. 20.—The correspondence which has been going on between Prime Minister Lloyd George and Father Michael O'Flanagan, "vice president of the Irish republic," in an effort to obtain a truce between England and the Sinn Féin organization, apparently has been brought to an end.

Father O'Flanagan, in his latest message to Lloyd George, declared the only way to reconciliation was by "direct negotiations with the official head of

CAMBRIA AND MIDVALE STEEL SHOPS ANNOUNCE 25 PER CENT WAGE CUT

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 18.—The Cambria Steel Co., today announced a reduction in wages of approximately 25 per cent, effective December 23. In addition, all but a few of the smaller departments will be closed down at least two weeks. Extensive declines in the selling prices of iron and steel made necessary the reduction in wages, according to a statement of the company this afternoon.

Coscowville, Pa., Dec. 20.—Formal announcement is made by the Midvale Steel and Ordnance Company of a 25 per cent reduction in wages for all local workers. This rule includes officers, salaried men, steel workers and laborers. Wages for laborers are cut from 45 to 30 cents per hour and all overtime is eliminated. The revision in wages is effective January 1.

HARDING PLAN OF NEW ASSOCIATION NEAR COMPLETION

Marion, O., Dec. 20.—Immediately after his inauguration, President-elect Harding will be prepared to open negotiations with foreign countries for an association to prevent war.

The plan for such an association of nations, upon which Senator Harding has consulted some of the country's ablest minds, is now so near completion it can be definitely outlined as follows:

1. Establishment of an international judicial tribunal to adjudicate controversies arising between nations over violations of treaties and of international law.

2. Settlement of the problem of reduction of armaments through discussion in a world forum similar to that established at the Hague.

3. Recodification of international law to include adjustment of new problems brought about by the world war, such as submarine warfare.

Upon these principles will be based the new association of nations, which foreign countries will be invited to join. Senator Harding has made it plain to some of his conferees that he expects no long delay in putting this concrete plan into actual operation. Within four or five months after the submission of the association proposal the president-elect expects to have the co-operation of the principal nations of the world in carrying out the details.

The plan as definitely outlined vindicates all of the platform campaign pledges of the Republican party. It calls for a judicial alliance of nations, as opposed to the political alliance as in the league of nations.

President-elect Harding and practically all of his advisors believe that the league has demonstrated its failure as an agency to prevent war and they are of the opinion that a majority of the league membership will embrace the idea for an association of nations as outlined.

If these opinions are correct, and there seems to be unlimited support for them, Washington will be the scene of a new peace conference, which may succeed where the league has failed.

A commission consisting of some of the ablest men in the country would be appointed to represent the United States in the conference, and it is not unlikely that some of Harding's callers may be members.

MAY BE WHITE XMAS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 20.—Weather predictions for the week beginning Monday are: North and Middle Atlantic states, cold, generally fair, but with a probability of snow or rain Tuesday or Wednesday.

South Atlantic and east gulf states, generally fair and cool, but with a probability of rains Tuesday or Wednesday.

Ohio valley and Tennessee, generally fair and cold, but snow or rain is probable Tuesday and Wednesday.

Region of Great Lakes, cold, unsettled and local snows.

The Irish nation—President De Valera.

In his reply sent Saturday the prime minister said: "This attitude closes the door of those counsels of good will which you invoked by beginning this correspondence."

STATE POLICE ARE NOT PERMITTED TO ACCEPT REWARDS

Trooper Who Made Application for $1500 Reward in Pasquale Case Fired From The Force.

SIMPLY LUCK SAYS CHIEF

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 20.—Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania state police force, today announced the discharge of John J. Gecelosky, a private in Troop C, of Pottsville, who arrested August Pasquale, the kidnaper of the Coughlin baby. Gecelosky was dropped from the force because he claimed the $1,500 reward offered by the Montgomery county commissioners for the apprehension of the kidnaper.

Major Adams said: "The state police never have collected any rewards and it is not going to begin now. Gecelosky was only one of about 130 troopers who had their hands in that case and he is no more entitled to the reward than the other men. He was simply lucky enough to be at the spot along the railroad track in New Jersey where Pasquale came out of the bushes to pick up the bundle thrown from the train."

"All members of the Pennsylvania state police are indignant that Gecelosky has violated the precedent of the force by claiming the reward, and if he attempts to collect it by legal procedure, every other man who was on the case will enter similar claims, and when the claims have been adjusted every man, including myself, will waive his claim and turn back the money into the Montgomery county treasury."

JACK KURTZ CHAMP TREE CHOPPER AT RIORDEN SCHOOL

Member of Team Which Broke Down Fourteen Inch Oak in Forty Seven Seconds in Established Record

IS A NEW JUNIOR RECORD

Highland, N. Y., Dec. 20.—Boys of the Raymond Riorden School on Chodikee Lake established a new junior record for chopping a 14 inch oak in 47 seconds and 14 hundredths when teams from the Conservation Unit of the school furnished one of the features of the Texas barbecue that concluded the fall semester.

John Kurtz, aged 13, of Clearfield, Pa., and George Spring, of Bristol, Pa., aged 14, dropped a 14 inch oak in 47 seconds and 14 hundredths with Lucien Yeomans, of Tiverton, R. I., slumped and cut the tree into lengths in another four minutes. The team defeated a sawing and swamping unit made up of John Buck, of New York, William Mellor, of Atlantic City, and Robert Fink, of New York City, time of felling 58 seconds.

COUNTY INSTITUTE OPENS WITH BIG ATTENDANCE

Superintendent Trostle Makes Address Full Of Good Sound Facts Opening First Session

LIST OF TEACHERS

Institute convened with about 550 teachers present, 150 today. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. C. C. Snavely of the West Side M. E. Church. Music was in charge of Prof. H. J. Taylor of Lancaster, Pa., and Miss Alice Smith as pianist. After the devotional exercises, Superintendent Trostle addressed the Institute as follows:

"Fellow teachers, friends:—It truly affords me pleasure this afternoon to greet and welcome you at this the fifty-seventh annual session of the Clearfield County Teachers' Institute. Yet knowing and realizing that the public school teacher is the most potent factor in our populace for the formation of the future ideals and policies of our nation I hesitate to take the time of this gathering, especially when it might be so much more profitably occupied by these distinguished educators, who have come to help each one of us to solve his or her problems."

As Gov. Allen of Kansas most truly said, "The future of America today rests as never before upon our great system of public schools. Our schools are our greatest security against the unseen perils of the future and we should make them worthy of our growing national life." History has shown that a Republic is not stronger than her system of schools and it is a fact that no school is better or stronger than its teacher, and what the teacher is he determines almost wholly by his or her ideals and philosophy of life, hence the importance of the teacher of the rising generation getting the proper ideals and perspective of what our schools should do for our boys and girls, the citizens of the great tomorrow.

Previous to the war we had been trying to copy the methods of Europe and to adopt European ideas without regard to their ultimate social effect for a democracy. The ideas about "discipline" and "fitting" for life's work, so took hold of us that we thought only of the theory of the individual for the state and almost lost sight of the individual himself.

"Within the last fifty years the educational pendulum has swung from the extreme classical idea to the other extreme, the purely vocational idea. Germany was an example of what the emphasis on the purely vocational will produce. It is true that by such a system the economic world is equipped with sturdy workers, and a highly efficient economic system evolved, but the individual is forgotten and molded into a mere machine, incapable of any initiative or enjoyment of the higher and better things of life, and thus becomes a mere unthinking mechanism of the greater unit—the state."

When the testing time came we saw the product of such highly developed efficiency swept away before the deluge of a free democracy like frost before the sun. It is said that the reason that Napoleon's armies were so long unconquerable was that every man carried a "Marshall's baton" in his knapsack. Any system of education which relegates and dooms a child to one line of endeavor like a slave chained to a galley is unfit for a great free nation like ours. While on the other hand a system of education suitable for a democracy must be so flexible that every child must be made to feel that he has an opportunity for promotion in the course he loves.

A baneful tendency among some of our boys and girls is to specialize too early in life, thus incapacitating himself or herself for success in any other line of endeavor. Every citizen should be able to think well and judge what men higher up think and then he will not be so likely to be led astray by the demagogue. Our boys and girls should be taught to think of life not only on the basis of efficiency, but also of living. The Slave System of the South was perhaps more efficient than our modern economic system, but no one would advocate returning to it. Our citizens must be taught to dream dreams, to see beauty in the world around them and to find enjoyment in their work or life becomes a monotonous expanse which vice alone alleviates.

McSPARRAN AGAIN HEADS GRANGE IN KEYSTONE STATE

G. W. Hatch and G. P. Wachsob Also Elected to Honored Positions as Annual Meeting At Allentown.

Allentown, Pa., Dec. 20.—John A. McSparran, of Lancaster county, was Thursday night elected for his seventh consecutive term as master of the State Grange. The executive committee will decide on the place for the holding of the 1922 convention.

Other officers chosen follow: Overseer, Roland N. Benjamin; lecturer, Philip H. Dowe, Tiooga; steward, T. E. Talbott, Potter; assistant steward, R. H. Bevard, Allegheny; chaplain, George W. Hatch, Clearfield; treasurer, Frank P. Wilkins, Delaware; secretary, Fred Brenckman, Harrisburg; gatekeeper, J. B. W. Stuft, Somerset; Ceres, Mrs. Jennie M. Rodgers, Delaware; Pomona, Mrs. Louise Taylor, Washington; Flora, Mrs. C. C. Rankin, Chester; lady assistant steward, Ada Borties, Crawford; executive committee, A. P. Fullerton, Lawrence; finance committee, W. S. Roth, Lackawanna; director of Keystone Grange for five years, G. P. Wachsob, Clearfield.

Some one has aptly said that it is our lack of idealism and our adherence to a training that relegates all things not pertaining to the conquest of the almighty dollar as of no value which is responsible for so many failures. An education that neglects the creation of ideals in the youth is a failure, for the man so produced lacks conception and does not contribute his proper portion to the progress of the race.

We need to teach the country to agriculture, the city boy manual training and the girl domestic science and stenography, but not to be exclusive of other things. They should also learn the liberal arts and sciences and have developed accurate reasoning processes.

Our State is rightly insisting today that the school and not the ward politician, as formerly, shall teach the ideals of democracy. The school must instill in the minds and hearts of every boy and girl the legends and ideals of our country, the duties of citizenship and the rights we possess. It has been truly said, "He who does not feel the impulse of the race's struggle for expression, its urge its longings, is not one of us." The new American is thrilled with the vision of a great ideal realized and his eye scans the future where new vistas unfold. We are at the dawn of youth in our blood, and a great day dawns before us.

Let us make ourselves and our boys and girls worthy in hand, heart and hand, that the torch of civilization flung for us to bear from dying hands on the fields of Yorktown, Gettysburg, and of Flanders and Argonne, may be held still higher and will burn more brightly."

Dr. Hulle and E. G. Brunson, both gave very practical and helpful talks to the teachers of the county. In the absence of Prof. Hackman of State College, Supt. Lawrence Ruble of Millkill county, addressed the Institute on the important subject of "Thrifty The Lyceum Singers will be present tonight and the music loving public should not fail to hear this quartet. TWO ROBBERIES IN CLEARFIELD EARLY THIS MORNING

Manhattan Restaurant And Vakas Poolroom Entered and Robbed Of Money and Cigars

TOWN MEN BLAMED

The Manhattan Restaurant on Third street was broken into and robbed sometime between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning. The cash register was rifled and about $65 in money taken.

The pool room of George Vakas, located on Nichols street at the west end of the Second street bridge, was also broken into about the same time. At the pool room $7.50 in money was secured. One thousand cigarettes and two hundred cigars were also taken.

The only clue left by the robbers were footprints in the mud in the rear of both buildings where entrance was gained.

The police were notified this morning and they are working of the matter. Suspicion points to a pair of local young men and arrests are looked for shortly.

POLITICIANS FEAR HARDING MAY DO HIS OWN THINKING

Victims Fled in Senator A Good Listener But He Standfastly Refuses to Express His Views.

FORRIES OLD TIME LORDS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 20.—If gossip heard about the senator's habits may be true, Senator Harding is a man who likes to hear and listen, but not to be heard. Within the inner councils of the Republican party, it all traces to a positive tendency attributed to President-elect Harding to do considerable listening to all factors in the party, but to be very reticent so far as expressing his own views.

A veritable orgy of rumor, gossip, speculation and guessing has followed in the wake of the president-elect since his visit to the national capital. Some of his most intimate political associates, some whose personal relations with the senator cover a quarter of a century, are represented as being alarmed over an inclination on his part to place a somewhat lower estimate upon the views of his senatorial colleagues than they.

Many influential leaders in the Senate, men who ordinarily would be "on the inside" as to what Mr. Harding is thinking and planning, are held to be entirely sincere in their statements that they know nothing but gossip. Such a situation, if it actually exists in the degree represented, is a jolter in the deck for those senatorial leaders who believed the nomination of a senator would be followed by a senatorial administration at the White House.

Cabinet Speculations Vary. The cross-currents of speculation bearing upon cabinet possibilities traces to the alleged refusal of Mr. Harding to permit a few senators to do his thinking for him. It is possible to hear half a dozen stories all "straight from the throne" about cabinet choices, and some of them are in direct conflict.

Mr. Harding's supposed disposition to sit back and say little, to hear all shades of opinion but show preference to none, is reported to be nettling the old-time leaders. Some of them are known to be fearful that Mr. Harding, viewing the size of the victory in November, might come to believe it was a personal success, leaving him without special obligations to the so-called "senatorial oligarchy."

PROGRESS OF BREEDING UP ALL SOUND STOCK

Recommendations of the Board of Agriculture, Within Three Generations.

Under careful management and breeding, the former poor stock is being improved. Up within comparatively short spans of time.

Once the use of purebred stock has become general throughout the country the process of grading up will be rapid. Many experienced and practical breeders show that while purebred stock is the foundation of the purebred herd, the use of a good grade of stock is the most practical method of improvement. In a few more generations under careful breeding and management, the family stock will be graded up to as good an extent as that for production of large and fine animal products they are producing as useful as purebred. The difference between a high-grade animal and a purebred is, in the main, the breeding purpose. Only the latter can be used in producing purebred breeding stock. Moreover, only purebreds are eligible to registration in the different purebred associations. The Department of Agriculture, through its co-operative state experiment stations, is prepared to supply stock raisers with printed information that tells in popular language the best current breeding methods and the advantages to be derived from their use. In order that the department furnish an opinion of recognition, suitable for display to every farmer who agrees to keep purebred stock and to co-operate in other ways in the better live stock effort. To obtain the emblem the breeder or breeder is asked to fill out a simple blank showing the number and kind of stock he possesses and to declare that all his male breeding animals are purebred.

TOMATO SEEDS ARE WASTED

Can Be Converted Into an Excellent and a Proven Cane or Seed for Live Stock Fuel.

From 1,000 to 2,000 tons of tomato seeds so to waste each year in the pulp plants east of the Mississippi river. Investigations by the United States Department of Agriculture indicate that they can be profitably recovered and converted into an excellent and a proven cane or seed for stock feed, with a gross return of more than $65,000 and a net of about $10,000. Plants would operate two months a year on tomato seeds and might be used for grape and pumpkin seeds in addition, reducing the overabundance.

Everything is set and plans perfected for a Community Christmas tree in Curwensville, the first event of the kind that has ever taken place. Subscriptions were solicited from among the business men principally, who responded to the appeal nobly and a considerable amount of money for the purpose pledged, which is a guarantee that this new venture will be a great success. The persons who have this mission in charge have worked hard and are still at it, and are determined to make this advent of good cheer to those who are worthy of the gifts an epoch in their lives that will long be remembered as they plod wearily along over the rough pathway of life. The Progress takes upon itself the credit of being first in promulgating the Community Christmas tree idea in the minds of the more than five hundred people who daily read the Curwensville letter, and, therefore, is doubly interested in the event terminating in a great success. The people of the entire community are also interested, and are going to do everything in their power to assist the committee in the work. Even the kiddies have learned by hearing their elders talk that there is something afoot that will be for their pleasure and benefit, something that will be of great benefit to them in teaching them the old lesson of the Christ child and his mission on earth. There will be presents on this tree for some one, we are not going to say for whom, but they will be doled out to those who need them and will appreciate the manner in which they were given. There is only a few days more until this great town historical event will take place and a lot of hard work yet to be done; and the committee should receive all the assistance required to complete it in first-class shape. We predict that after the result of this first tree becomes manifest throughout the community, the people will never let a year pass by without planting a community Christmas tree on one of the prominent squares of the town. There are some people, of course, who n-o-o-hoo this tree idea, but we are safe in saying that once they understand its object and see its usefulness, over the old method of distributing Christmas presents to the needy, they will be as much in favor of it next year as they are against it this year.

The Progress man made an error last week in his statement that one of the deer that was killed at the Kelly camp was got by Woodie Kelly. The name should have read Alfred Kelly, a brother. As this was the young man's first deer hunt out on the mountains it is only justice to him to give him credit for killing his first deer.

Leslie Kline, one of the graduates of the high school here some years ago, now located on a farm down near Pottstown, Montgomery county, spent a portion of last week at the home of his grand parents here. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bloom. He left for his home this afternoon.

Lemoine Bloom, who is a fire inspector for a number of insurance companies, is home for the holiday week. He will spend a few days of this week in Indiana county where he has some factory buildings to look over.

Lemoine Eastman, now residing in Mason, O., with his parents, met with an accident one day last week which he suffered a severely but not wounded leg received while out hunting. He is a son of Perry Eastman, a former Curwensville resident, his mother being Vada Bloom, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bloom.

Miss Vivian Taylor, the young lady who so ably instructed the cast of characters in "The Miss Bob White" show here last week, left for her home in Logansport, Pa., last Saturday. The young lady, during her stay in Curwensville, made many friends who will always remember her with a warm and friendly feeling.

Some one hundred and fifty persons gathered at the American Legion rooms this evening and indulged in the game known as Five Hundred. Some thirty or forty tables were set. The object of the game is to win with which to buy presents and useful trinkets for the Community Christmas tree. During the evening a cafe luncheon was served which all present certainly did enjoy. A very pleasant evening was spent besides quite a sum of money deposited in the treasury box.

I. B. Norris has been confined to his home for some days, not suffering from a severe cold, and several other minor complications. The captain's friendly smile is greatly missed in his usual daily haunts by his many warm friends, who hope to see his recovery rapid and his presence among them once again.

DO NOT CUT CHRISTMAS TREES
We, the undersigned property owners, whose timber or wood lot front along the Mt. Zion road, hereby notify all persons not to cut Christmas trees on any of this land. Any violation of this notice will result in prosecution under the trespass law.

"A Romance of Happy Valley"

A thing of beauty is a joy forever—and "A ROMANCE OF HAPPY VALLEY" is a thing of beauty. Filled with pathos, rumor and charm, this quaint little story of the Tennessee mountains, told by a master of the cinema, will delight and interest you from start to finish. LILLIAN GISH, ROBERT HARRON, CLARINE SEYMOUR and a cast of Griffith players portray the various roles.

Heat of Red Peppers Breaks Chest Colds

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a bad cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings the quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

When heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints, relief comes at once. Nothing but such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub for colds, sore throats, sore muscles, stiff neck, lumbago, or the pains of rheumatism or neuritis, you feel the tingling heat.

In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering so you can hardly get about, just get a jar of Red Pepper Rub. Rub it over your chest, at any time, day or night. You will have the quickest relief known.

Bonds for New Home.

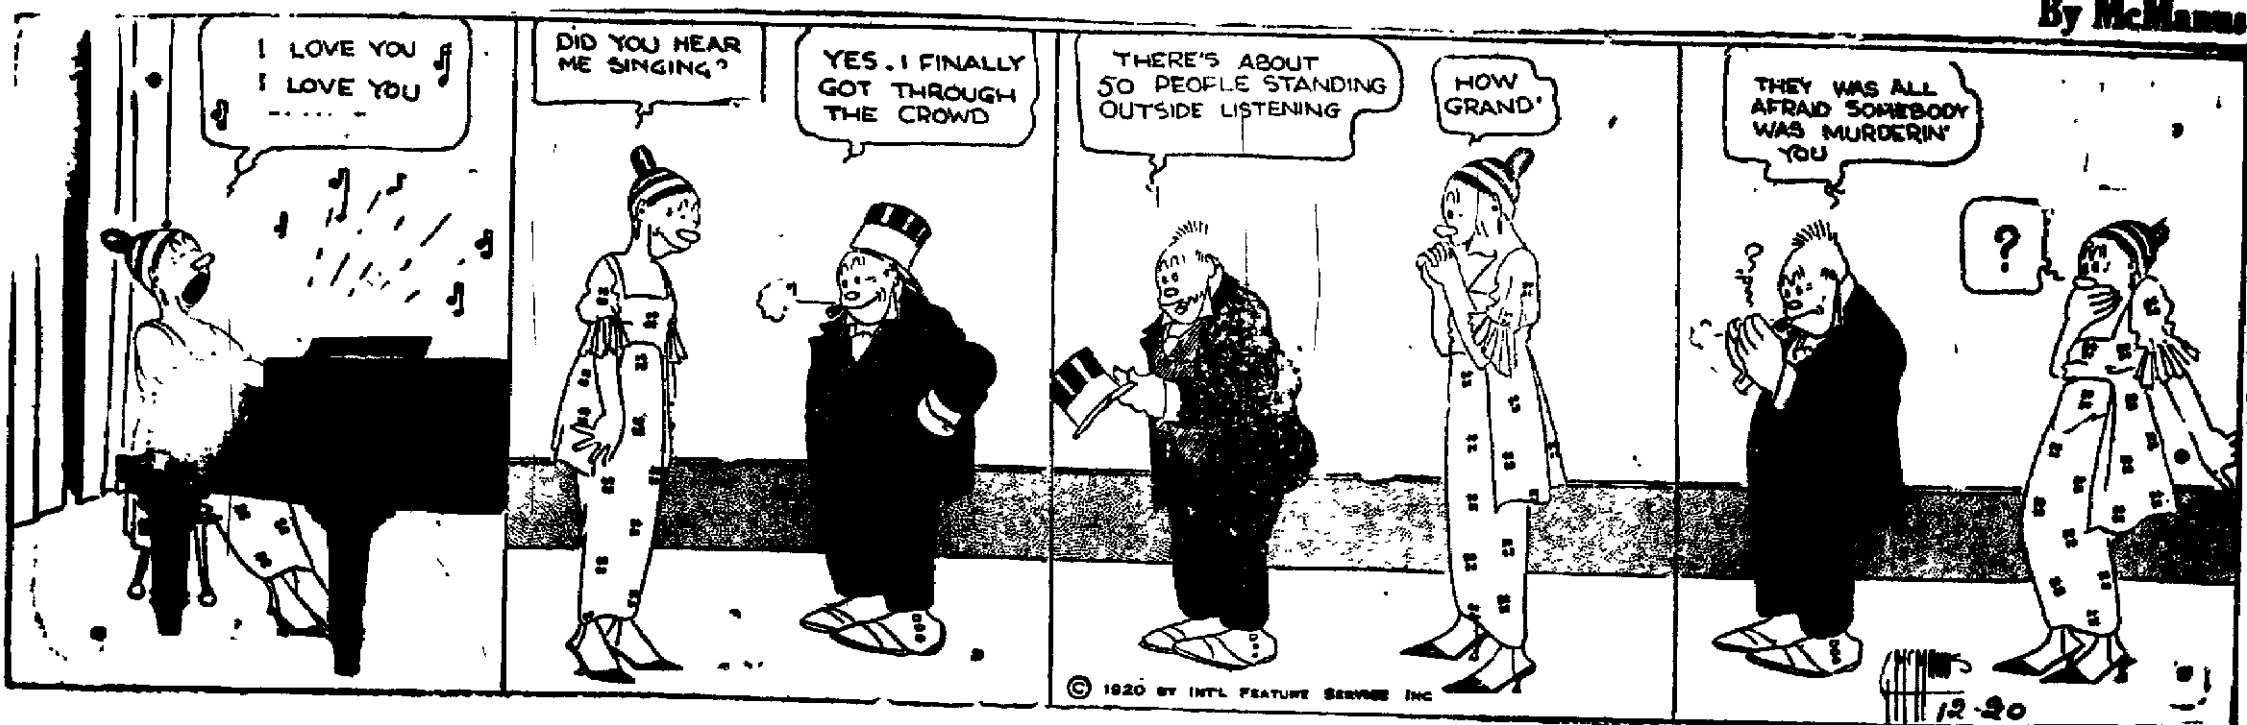

Twenty-dollar bonds, bearing six per cent interest and redeemable within five years, were sold in order to raise funds for a building for Stanley Dangler post of the American Legion, Clearfield, Pa. The post now has a large stone house for its home and has 108 out of 111 possible members enrolled in the Legion.

Soak in the name applied to the new dyed fabrics that have become popular in America in the last few years. War dyeing is a process of dyeing fabrics by hand after a pattern is formed by covering part of the cloth with wax so that it resists the action of the dye. The post now has a large stone house for its home and has 108 out of 111 possible members enrolled in the Legion.

A Host of Christmas Suggestions

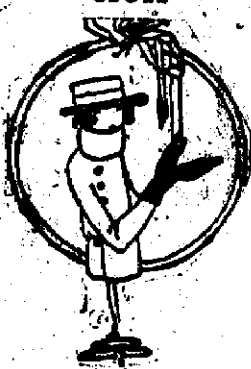

Odd Gifts For Christmas

Scattered through the store are countless little gifts that bring joy at Christmas simply because in the hurry of everyday life they are so easily passed by in the quest for the necessities.

Among these we find: Stationery, Umbrellas, Cut Glass Novelties, Manicure Sets, Handbags, Sweet Grass Baskets, Glass Top Trays, Perfumes, Nut Bowls, Candles, Crackers and Pickles, Narcissus Flower Baskets, With five Bulbs.

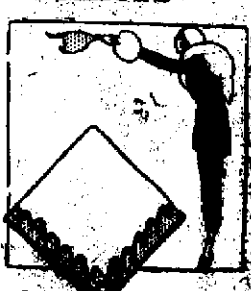

Any of the above has the distinction of being different to its credit.

Gloves of Every Description

And there is no describing them all, for they abound in numbers for the most varied of occasions and likewise of tastes. Whether you have set your mind on giving gifts of a half dozen pairs or but a single one, you will find at reasonable prices gloves of all sorts for street wear, afternoon affairs and evening in a delightfully bewildering array. And could one ever have too many?

A Wealth of Handkerchiefs

The handkerchief is one of those convenient little gifts which may be exceedingly modest or exceedingly imposing. Its price is in its favor. Time spent in looking over the fresh new Christmas stocks discloses the plain and the fancy, the simple and the giddy, the white and the colored Handkerchiefs, each one ready to be tucked in a box for merry Christmas day.

Christmas Gifts for the Home

Christmas finds one wanting the home to be the cheery center of holiday festivities. Lower prices make it possible for every one to add several of the cherished, wished-for pieces of furniture this Christmas season. Buy these gifts that brighten up the home the whole year thru.

EFFICIENCY AND STRAINED EYES

One hundred per cent efficiency means a perfect mental and physical condition. Any impairment of either prevents the individual from rendering his proper degree of efficiency. Eye strain causes both mental and physical discomfort. Glasses remove the strain and the discomfort vanishes. Scarcely anything is much more worth while than that. YOU must take the first step in the desired direction.

Useful Bacteria.
Geologists are realizing more fully, as they extend their studies, the magnitude of the work done by plants and animals in building up and tearing down parts of the crust of the earth. Even microscopic organisms perform a large part of this work. Pasteur long ago showed not only the deadly power of bacteria in disease and their efficiency in promoting fermentation, but also their influence on the fertility of soils, and their work in extending rock decay is still a subject of scientific study. Bacteria evidently not only aid in the decomposition of rocks and in the formation of beds of chalk and limestone, as has already been demonstrated, says the Scientific American, but are active in the deposition of some beds of iron ore.

Municipal Courtesy.

Motoring from Yarmouth to Norwich, writes a correspondent, I chanced upon a novel piece of municipal courtesy. Entering Thorpe, a suburb of Norwich, the usual vivid red-painted letters on a standard by the roadside requested motorists to drive carefully through the suburb. I obeyed the crimson injunction, and had my reward at the outer gate of the village, so to speak. There by the roadside stands a post with the words "Thank You" painted in the same scarlet. It suggested to me how eloquent and chivalrous our sign posts may become.—London Daily Mail.

Lent Long Observed.

The custom of observing Lent dates from the early history of the Catholic church. Before the third century there is positive evidence of the solemn observance of the last two days of Holy week, and it gradually spread to include the whole week. Finally, in 325, the council of Nicea, recognized the period of 40 days' fasting in commemoration of the fasting of Christ as an established custom. In the medieval church the fasting was very strictly observed, and included abstinence from all meat, milk and its products, and from all food until evening.

Obstacles Test Character.

One's vision is apt to become blurred in passing through great crises, in periods of general depression, in times of financial stress, but this is really the test of a strong character—that he does not allow obstacles to divert him from his one aim. The man who is made of the stuff that wins hangs on to his vision, even to the point of starvation, for he knows that there is only one way of bringing it down to earth, and that is by clinging to it through storm and stress, in spite of every obstacle and discouragement. Orison Sweet Marden, in Chicago Daily News.

Why "Hoosier" State?

The Indianapolis News, replying to a correspondent, gives the following explanation of Indiana's nickname, the Hoosier state: In the early days of the state the people were called Hoosiers. There is a wide difference of opinion as to why they were called Hoosiers. Meredith Nicholson, in his book, "The Hoosiers," says in the course of an extended discussion of the origin of the word: "Both Gov. Wright and O. B. Smith were of the opinion that 'Hoosier' was a corruption of 'Who's here' (rare ex-her). It is also thought to be a corruption of hoosier, and other explanations are advanced.

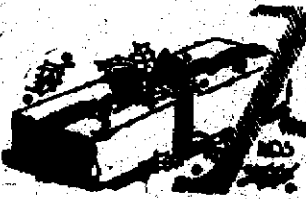

Sahara Desert Spreading.

A steady southern migration of certain tribes in the interior of Africa has perplexed travelers, but a curious explanation has now been suggested by F. W. H. Migoed, an English geologist. His view is that the tribes of the Gaboon and Moyen Congo have been forced into nomadic habits by the increasing growth and expansion of the Sahara desert. Grassy plains and wooded hills of the time of Herodotus have been transformed into sandy wastes. It is estimated that the desert has grown 200 meters a year, or 120 miles in 1,500 years.

MRS. GEORGE BILGER DIED LAST NIGHT AT THE HOSPITAL

Mrs. Annella Ferguson Bilger, of Tyrone, Pa., died at the Clearfield Hospital at 11 o'clock last evening as the result of a complication of diseases and an attack of pneumonia. The deceased was born Feb. 22, 1863, and was therefore in her 58th year. She was married to Geo. M. Bilger, Esq., at Curwensville Sept. 12, 1888 and resided at Coalport for a number of years.

In 1891 the family moved to Clearfield and made their home here until 1912. Since that time she had been making her home at Tyrone with her daughter, Mrs. M. C. Musser. Some time ago she underwent an operation for appendicitis, following which other complications arose and after a recent second operation pneumonia developed and the end came as above stated. Mr. Bilger, who is practicing law at St. Petersburg, Fla., arrived here Saturday evening and was at his wife's bedside when she passed away.

Mrs. Bilger was a devout christian woman, a devoted wife and mother and enjoyed the respect and esteem of a wide circle of friends throughout this section whose sympathies go out to the loved ones left behind.

She is survived by her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Annella Musser, wife of M. C. Musser, of Tyrone. She is also survived by her father, W. B. Ferguson, of Cherrytree, one brother, Ernest Ferguson, of Clearfield; and four sisters, Mrs. H. S. Buck, Cherrytree; Mrs. J. W. Hile, Lumber City; Mrs. J. A. Mead, Clearfield, and Miss Mildred Ferguson, of Akron, Ohio.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the Musser home at Tyrone.

TRINITY METHODISTS HAD GREAT CHRISTMAS MUSIC

Trinity church choir sang the fine Christmas cantata "The Manger Throne" Sunday evening before a large congregation. The soloists acquitted themselves most creditably and the chorus singing was rendered with fine effect. The orchestra, under the direction of William Hoover, and composed of some of the town's well known musicians, was heard in three selections. The decorations with Christmas candles, wreaths and a small tree were arranged with exquisite taste and gave the church a Christmas-like appearance. Two well known Christmas hymns were sung heartily by the congregation, and the entire program was one that will linger in memory for many a day.

Billy Lynn returned to his home in Phillipsburg after a visit with his grand parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lynn.

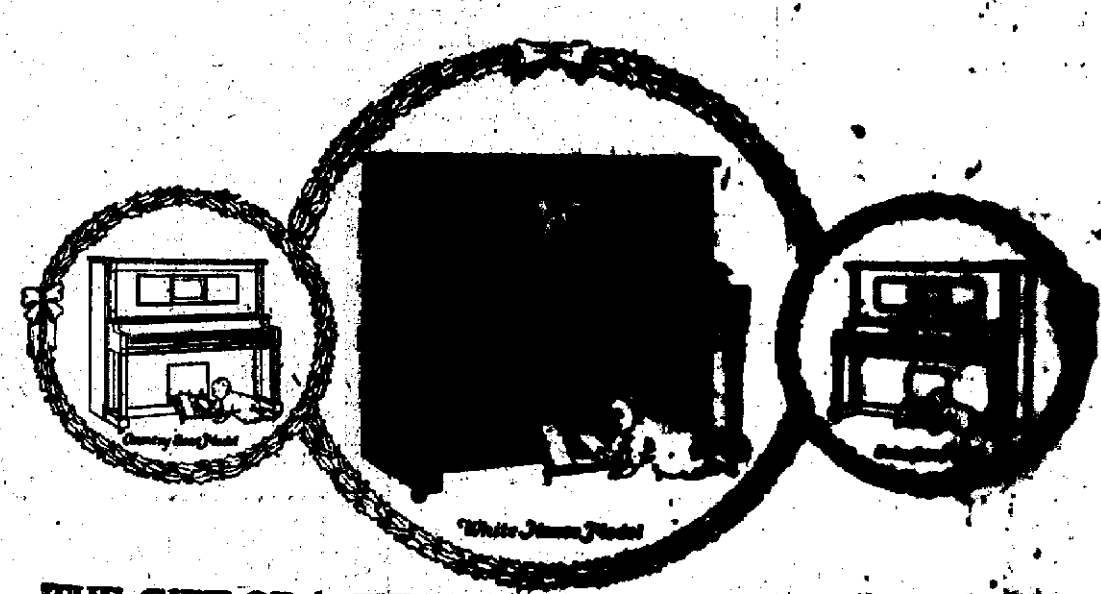

Mrs. James Sheridan spent the week end with friends in Clearfield.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hestington spent the week end with friends in Clearfield.

Red Nelson & family returned to their home in Erie after a visit with friends in town.

THE GIFT OF A GULERANSEN IS SOMETHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO — AND BACK TO! MAKE THIS A MEMORABLE CHRISTMAS.

If you give the family a gift that all can enjoy won't they look back on this Christmas as being the greatest Christmas in the history of your family? Think of sitting down and playing the music of the greatest masters without a knowledge of music! You can do it. And it's so easy to play!

Really you will look back at this Xmas as being the greatest ever. If you take the Saturday Evening Post read the Guleransen page advertisement in last week's issue over again.
